Fund update

The portfolio has no predetermined allocations to any sector; instead, stocks are selected on the basis of their individual merits. We favour companies with strong free cash flows and growth potential which is not dependent on the broad trend of the economy. Our assessment of their ability to contribute to long term returns includes consideration of each stock’s market valuation relative to its fundamental characteristics. We trimmed holdings where prices had moved above our target level, reallocating the cash to where we thought the value was better. However, reflecting our view that the market overall is expensive, some of the cash raised through sales has been retained in anticipation of more attractively priced opportunities arising in the coming period.
