Fund update

Occupier and rental markets remained solid, supporting the income flows which make up a sizeable part of long term total returns to property investors. Capital markets have been very subdued, however, with transaction volumes at near-record low levels. The associated lack of 'price discovery' – observable prices paid for properties in actual transactions – has left prospective buyers and sellers, as well as property fund valuers, in a cautious mood. Markets also firmed up their expectations that interest rates would remain 'higher for longer'. This has kept capital values in the property market under pressure as investors demand higher yields. Offices remained the most troubled sector in a challenging market, due to a combination of changing working practices and more stringent environmental standards adding to landlords' costs.

Over the quarter the Fund's total return was -1.0% compared with a return on the comparator benchmark of -0.6%. Over the past 12 months the Fund returned -14.8% compared to the comparator benchmark return of -14.5%. The portfolio has a bias towards industrial assets, and retail warehouses are also well represented; whereas there is little exposure to high street shops. Recent activity has included the sale of two properties, an office building in Leicester and a car showroom in Bristol. Both sales were completed at prices above the more recent portfolio valuation. Meanwhile management activity included new leases on two floors of the portfolio's largest property by value, 80 Cannon Street in London, helping to secure future income flows.

Valuations are likely to remain under pressure until investors are confident that the peak of the interest rate cycle has been reached. Even then, with property yields now enjoying a lower premium over the bond market, capital growth will be subdued. Income will therefore continue to be the key driver of total returns from property. Investors in the office sector face particular challenges and active, selective management will be especially important in this part of the property market.
